DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 34-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for two remote servers containing information regarding patient identification information and medical record numbers, does not reasonably provide enablement for correlating the two servers together to render matching the patient identification number with the medical record numbers. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. Claim 36 needs to be included in claim 34 because it provides the missing connection in bringing the patient identification numbers and the medical record numbers together to make operable secure medical records system. Claim 34 without the correlation table of claim 34, is just two remote data servers that store patient numbers and medical numbers and is not a system.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 34 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Svenska (WO 98/11820) in view of Frasca, Jr. (USPN 6,055,506).

Svenska teaches a portable telemedicine devices (pda) that comprises communication equipment 2 which is portable that can transmit and receive digital data to several central units that stores information data (page 4). The central unit store patient history records, patient numbers and other medical information (page 5). A transmission list determines which receivers are to be used in each individual case, from which list one or several central units may be preselected (page 6).

Svenska does not teach a security system that limits information that one can obtain from one server to another.

Frasca teaches an outpatient care data system that comprises a password checker to be able to access certain information in a patients record from the central servers (col. 10, lines 35-37). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify Svenska to employ a data security system of Frasca so that patient's information is not access by an unauthorized user and patient privacy is kept secure.
